

5 Jeometrica by Scavolini

In many kitchens, cabinetry is the base around which every design decision is made. This flexible and versatile system, designed by Luca Nichetto for Scavolini, makes for the perfect canvas. Drawing inspiration from the works of Ellsworth Kelly, Gio Ponti and Donald Judd, the minimal and contemporary design can be customized with various finishes, including matte lacquer, decorative melamine, veneered surfaces, stoneware or glass. Framed by aluminum profiles, available in two colours (Anthracite and Titanium), the clean-lined cabinets embody refined elegance. Recessed grip openings or two types of compact handles can be added for further personalization.

But the collection's adaptability doesn't end there. With the J_System laminate wall panels, offered in both rectangular and teardrop shapes, Jeometrica can be transformed to have a completely bespoke feel. The panel allows shelves, containers and small accessories to be fitted freely and rearranged over time, enabling compositions that respond to your everyday needs. A complementary line of accessories, also designed by Nichetto, allows you to craft a cohesive look with base units and open-fronted elements, shelves with a wall panel, suspension and wall lamps.
