

ULTIMATE KITCHENS

Here comes the sun

This year is all about colour positivity. Bright, sassy yellow was chosen for its dopamine-boosting powers in this kitchen. 'The owners wanted a hit of sunshine,' says Pluck co-founder Leila Touwen, who worked on the project alongside Stealth Design. Hollingbourne Yellow kitchen, from £25,000, Pluck. Puzzle tiles by Barber & Osgerby, £138.99sq m, Mutina.

POETRY IN MOTION

On the hunt for a Shaker kitchen with a twist? Look no further than Scavolini's new Poetica design. Like Shaker styles, it features a framed detail, but in a slimmer incarnation that feels more refined. Created as a modular system, Poetica includes cabinets, shelving and wall panels. From £10,000.

SHOW-OFF SPLASHBACKS

Poliform has shone a light on elegant splashback storage with the latest incarnation of its iconic Alea kitchen designed by Paolo Piva. Catering for committed chefs and the time-poor, Alea Pro ensures cooking essentials are easy to spot and proves that organisation and style can coexist in perfect harmony. From £55,000.

Does it all

You've heard of kitchen islands, but what about island kitchens? Meet Officine Gullo's recently launched Isola line, which accommodates all cooking requirements, including the kitchen sink, in one spectacular package. Or, as the Italian brand puts it, 'a place for cooking, eating, relaxing and sharing moments, from morning coffee to the evening's last glass of wine'. Underneath you can add pantry drawers, ovens and even a dishwasher. Available in five widths. Isola 228, around £115,000.

PHOTOGRAPHS (HERE COMES THE SUN) RACHAEL SMITH