

Scavolini introduces a new custom walk-in closet system

By Canadian Interiors — On Jan 26, 2022

Scavolini Toronto and Vuesse Design, the Research and Development department of Scavolini, are starting off the new year with a line of customizable walk-in wardrobes called Walk-In Fluida.

Fluida's sophisticated aesthetic is designed around optimizing organization in the bedroom and offers versatile solutions in terms of modularity, finishes and adaptability.

The wardrobe systems also come with all-new aluminum-framed glass doors, transparent smoked glass, and accent lights for added ambience.

The new Fluida product line includes new accessory components, such as a clothes rack and pull-out frame, sliding clothes rack, storage drawers and trouser and shoe racks.

Nuance Larch, Winton can be paired with door materials with push-pull openings or handles.

The collection is equipped with designs that can be linear, or fit in a corner, with visible modules, or closed modules, and even includes free-standing solutions that can act as partitions within a room.

"With more time spent at home during the pandemic, renovations and home upgrades have been on a rise – especially those related to home organization," says Scavolini.

Furniture Interior Design product design

PREV POST

Heimtextil plans a Summer Special show in June

NEXT POST

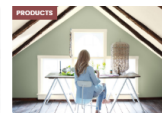

MOCA Toronto Announces Winter/Spring 2022 Programming

You Might Also Like

More From Author

Ligne Roset launches new designs by Guillaume Delvigne

Paint Colours of the Year: In Full Bloom

Karim Rashid designs a new collection using ocean plastics

PREV NEXT